about

Playce p/l is a creative landscape architectural practice which draws on the wealth of knowledge and specialist expertise of the company's founder and Principal Aaron Wallis.

Aaron is a registered landscape architect with AILA and long standing member of both PLA and Play Australia. He has had over 15 years of professional practice. During this time he has fulfilled key primary management roles in a number of highly successful award winning companies. Leading large teams of professional staff, he has delivered over 400 different projects with a focus on skate & BMX facilities, youth spaces and broader public domain works.

Playce's core ambition is to improve & activate the public domain by designing spaces for the whole community where everyone can engage in stimulating and challenging activities, and experience positive and enriching social interaction.

Playce provides specialist strategic advice, advocacy, facilitation, engagement & full landscape architectural design services throughout the public domain.

A particular focus of Playce is on the design of public space that actively caters for young people. We recognize that they are vital participants in community life. Playce designed spaces can ensure that young people become more integrated into the community and can freely participate, have fun and socialize in positive ways.

Aaron has been a leader in this field over the last 10 years as demonstrated through the successful delivery of many unique and innovative award winning projects. He has also presented on youth inclusive public spaces at a range of professional conferences throughout Australia
